xpress lube® shopper™ program Image Audit Survey

Dear valued xpress lube owner,

Chevron's new xpress lube shopper program has been designed for and is intended to promote the health and success of xpress lube branded locations and Chevron's quest to be #1 in the hearts and minds of customers.

The program consists of a quarterly customer satisfaction mystery shop survey and a twice a year image audit survey conducted by Chevron's contracted research agency, Ipsos. Participants are required to maintain minimum scores.

The image audit survey is designed to evaluate tangible site attributes that are most important to customers and Chevron as it relates to representing the brand. Please review this guide to learn more about image audit expectations.

Thank you for making Chevron and Havoline your retail brands of choice. Sincerely,

Barbara Nelson Automotive Installed Marketing Manager Chevron Lubricants

who are these mystery shoppers / image auditors?

Anyone that comes to your facility could be a mystery shopper or image auditor. They look, act and experience things just like all of your other customers. The only difference is that they are trained to recognize excellence in facility appearance and customer service.

Image audits will be conducted twice a year.

Visits occur Monday-Friday 9 am - 4:30 pm and Saturday 9 am - 3 pm. Shops will not occur on holidays or Sundays.

Image Audit Period	Timing
1	January 1 – June 30
2	July 1 – December 31

The questions on the image audit survey are worth a total of 89 points. Survey questions, best practices, and point values are included at the end of this guide and cover the following important areas:

- 1. Overall site appearance
- 2. Street signage
- 3. Building signage
- 4. Customer ambience
- 5. Service bays
- 6. Personal appearance

letter of authorization

The surveys require pictures taken of your facility. The image audit is overt in that evaluators are required to walk around and take pictures to support responses. Evaluators will present this letter of authorization from Chevron, if/when your employees have questions.

Dear xpress lube® owner, manager, team member:

Chevron Products Company contracted with Ipsos, a global research agency, to conduct customer satisfaction mystery shop surveys and image audit surveys exclusively at Havoline xpress lube® and Chevron xpress lube® locations in the United States, as part of Chevron's new xpress lube® shopper program™.

Mystery shops and image audits are designed to evaluate customer satisfaction and tangible site image attributes that are most important to customers and to Chevron. Insights from survey results are intended to identify strengths and areas of opportunity to help business owners recognize things that are going well with employees and take corrective actions to improve overall performance and image. Everything that happens at a site is a reflection on the ownership and the brand.

The person presenting this letter is an authorized evaluator from Ipsos, contracted by Chevron. Your cooperation in allowing them to complete the image audit of your site is appreciated. Image audits are expected to take approximately 30-40 minutes to complete. The results are captured and shared with the business owner in an online reporting platform.

If you have questions, please contact your Chevron Business Consultant.

Sincerely

Barbara Nelson Automotive Installed Marketing Manager Chevron Lubricants

shopper training materials, examples of Chevron's expectations

The following pages are guidelines containing examples of what good looks like and, where we have it, what is not good or non-compliant.

The guidelines are used by image audit evaluators to help them determine answers and score Chevron's image survey questions.

Image audit survey results together with the guidelines can help you easily pinpoint and fix deficiencies to improve your facility image in the eyes of the customers in your community and Chevron.

Everything about the physical appearance of your business leaves an impression with the customer - and reflects on Chevron.

NOTE: As there are more Chevron xpress lube® facilities, shoppers will gather pictures and Chevron may create a separate guide.

Survey questions may evolve over time, at the same time, image scores and Chevron's expectations of licensees will always be held high. You will be notified of changes when they do occur in the future.

minimum image audit score

90%

Chevron and Ipsos established the survey and criteria for evaluation based on the combination of: Do-It-For-Me consumer research, trends, industry experience and pilot participant input. Each question in the survey is worth a certain number of points, weighted based on relative importance. All question points earned on each evaluation roll up into the total score for that evaluation.

The pilot. Chevron conducted a program pilot that involved five (5) Havoline xpress lube® locations throughout the U.S., a mix of both single-site and multi-site ownership businesses. After 5 months and a total of 25 shops, the total average image audit score was 97.44.

Decision. Based on the pilot and collective industry experience, Chevron and Ipsos established a minimum required image audit score of 90%*. Due to the nature of dealing with mostly fixed facility image aspects, image audit scores are expected to be high and higher than customer satisfaction mystery shop scores.

*Failure to maintain the minimum score two (2) times in a row over a twelve (12) month period may result in de-branding.

APPEAL OPPORTUNITY: If a location disagrees with how a specific question was scored, they may dispute the score for that question using the portal-based appeal process. The steps for submitting an appeal and/or photo resolve are outlined on the reporting portal. If needed, locations may be subject to an additional cost of $125 per reaudit visit.

what if I disagree with my results or fix the infractions found by the shopper?

Appeal Process

Image auditors are trained on Chevron's facility image standards. If you believe that points were deducted from your results in error, you can file an appeal for reinstatement of lost points or clarification on the reason for the deduction. This should only be used when you have a legitimate disagreement with your results. You will be asked for a detailed explanation and supporting evidence. Past results will not be accepted as "proof" that current results are inaccurate.

If, however, you agree with the image auditor's results and you want to fix an infraction, you may do so for a reinstatement of points for the question you are resolving. This process should be used when you have fully corrected the infraction and can provide photo evidence of the item being fully addressed.

You have up to 15 days from the date the shop is reported on the portal to submit an appeal or photo resolve. In either case, the submission process is initiated through the online portal. More specific instructions can be found on the online portal.
